WORKSHOP

EPD is a consolidated tool for more than a decade used by industry to demonstrate the sustainability of products. In the construction sector a lot of investments have been done from manufacturers in order to provide the market with green products.

In the public sector, the Green Public Procurement has pushed the necessity of products with guaranteed green performances, as in the private sector the building and infrastructure rating systems have raised the demand green products demand.

All over Europe are now present national Program Operators for EPDs and in 2013 has been founded ECO Platform with the scope to contribute and support the provision of scientifically-sound, quality-assured and verified information of a European-wide accepted core EPD.

In the ECO Platform frame is inserted EPDIItaly, The Italian Program Operator, that has obtained the recognition also from Accredia, the Italian Accreditation Body.

In the workshop will be presented the experiences done by the Italian stakeholders, in line with the European framework and the state of the art. An exchange of view and opinions with the European experts on EPDs and green products should address the participants the strategy for taking the opportunity of the growing circular economy.
